

WE HELP YOU BUILD SUSTAINABLE SCHOOLS

For K-12 Educational Facilities

The California Energy Design Assistance (CEDA) program offers a unique opportunity for schools to build sustainable, comfortable, energy-efficient buildings.

Schools are facing increasing pressure to provide safe and clean environments for their staff and students. If a new building or major renovation are on the horizon in your district now is the perfect time to enroll in the CEDA program and improve your school designs.

CEDA provides a complimentary analysis of different energy efficiency options and outlines potential energy savings and incentives.

Our dedicated team of energy specialists listen to your project goals and customize energy efficiency options to help you maximize your long-term savings potential.

Energy costs are second only to personnel costs for K-12 school district operational budgets.
